

STRESSES ECONOMIC ASPECT OF SAFETY

Judge Gary Declares Nation That Prevents Accidents Conserves Resources.

SAYS 'WEEK' HAS HELPED

Marcus Dow Makes Several Further Suggestions to Cut Down Chance Deaths.

The economic side of safety campaigns was stressed by Judge Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the Public Safety Committee for Greater New York, before a meeting at the Hotel Astor yesterday of the members' council of the Merchants Association of New York. The adoption of measures to prevent accidents would result in a saving to productive efficiency, said Judge Gary.

"The number of serious preventable accidents throughout this country every day are appalling," Judge Gary declared, "and because of additions in population and congestion in movement the number is increasing, notwithstanding what has been done to prevent them."

Hab's Economic Side.

"The proposition now engaging our thought and action is primarily one of humanity, but it also is economic. A nation which decreases deaths and injuries from accidents is in the highest and best sense conserving its resources. The first feature of our safety campaign is to obtain crusaders and methods which will help us to realize the necessity for presence of mind and a desire to avoid and to prevent accidents and injuries to themselves and others."

Marcus A. Dow, safety director for the New York Central Lines and president of the National Safety Council, reported that Safety Week had saved lives. Not many accidents were reported in New York yesterday, he said, whereas twelve persons were killed through accidents on the corresponding day of 1921.

Sugges. Prevention Methods.

Methods suggested by Mr. Dow for the prevention of accidents included daily safety instruction, organization of "Safe Drivers' School," classes for superintendents of factories, where they can learn to teach safety practices to subordinates; the formation of a speakers' bureau to furnish safety lectures to schools, factories and clubs; the distributions of safety posters in garages, filling stations, stores, hambers, filling stations, stores, hambers, and the distribution of continuing handbooks of safety principles into the minds of the public through newspapers.

Public safety is the first concern of policemen, 1,500 members of "the finest" were told by Richard E. Enright, Police Commissioner, at Carnegie Hall.

"Street safety is strictly a police job," said Mr. Enright, "and one of the first things I call your attention to is the playing of children in the streets. I shall expect every patrolman to give his utmost attention to the saving of the lives of children."

ANTHONY CAMPAGNA BUYS PLOT ON DRIVE

Protects Adjoining Flat He Erected in 1919.

Anthony Campagna has purchased the vacant plot, northeast corner of Riverside Drive and 145th street, adjoining the six story elevator apartment house at 634 Riverside Drive, which he built in 1919, the first house of its kind to be erected after the armistice. The land measures 153 feet on the Drive and 55.8 feet on the street. Mr. Campagna bought it principally to preserve the light and air of the adjoining structure. He will probably erect an apartment house on the site at a total cost of $150,000.

The seller, the Colworth Realty Corporation, acquired the plot a few days ago. F. V. Calder & Co. were the brokers in the transaction. William B. Symmes of Davis, Symmes & Schreber acted as attorney for the purchaser.

SUBURBAN TRANSACTIONS.

The Valberk-Leighton apartment house, on Valentine lane, between Leighton and Berkeley avenues, Yonkers, was purchased by Jacob Harris of Yonkers from Emily W. Rollins and Jessie La Roche. John J. Clancy was the broker. The buying price was $15,000.

Pringle & Ripley sold for Alfred C. Maco Jr., his residence on Sherman avenue, in the Gedney Farm section of White Plains, to Martin M. Foss. The property consists of a house, with an acre of ground, and was held at $10,000.
